

Ann Kilcrin Ward

October 22, 1972

Ann was an accomplished and recognized writer whose poetry was published in the Antioch Review. She received an award in 1972 from the Poetry Society of Vermont, and the first edition of Voices, a literary quarterly of which she was editor, had just been published, when Ann died of complications from chicken pox, leaving her husband, a reporter and editorial writer, and two daughters.