

Carolyn Reynolds Sunderman

August 6, 2002

At the time of her death, Carolyn was living in Vermont, having retired there along with her husband Bill in 1997, after spending three decades practicing pediatric medicine and raising her three children in Connecticut. She was a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Ambulatory Pediatrics Association and the American Association for Public Health. She also taught clinical medicine at the University of Connecticut.

Over the years, Carolyn continued to pursue the athletic interests that were such an important part of her life at Mount Holyoke. She was a triathlete, a long-distance runner and a skier, and also enjoyed gardening, carpentry and handicrafts. As noted by Alice McGovern Doering, "Rennie's classmates, friends and patients remember her generosity, energy, ingenuity, intelligence, compassion, endurance and love - qualities that will be greatly missed."
