

Margaret Bleick Dillard

November 17, 2008

After MHC, Meg, a physics major, received a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1967, and then in 1985, an MD from the University of Texas at San Antonio, after a residency at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. She became an assistant professor at the Medical College of Ohio in 1993 as well as a Fellow at the University of North Carolina/Chapel Hill. In 1997, she became the Medical Director of Dialysis Clinic, Inc. At the time of her death, she lived in Burbank, CA.

Rosemary Cox Masters remembers Meg from senior year in Pearsons as tall, quiet and thoughtful, but with an occasionally wicked sense of humor. Rosemary writes of "conversations and spirited debates" of the kind we all remember and treasure from dorm days. Meg was survived by a son, James C. and her sister, Sara.
