

177. MARTHA HARLAN CARLOCK, MA Class of 1969. You are an exemplar of the best of the liberal arts tradition, first a summa cum laude graduate in English at Southern Methodist University in Texas; later you received a Master of Arts degree at Mount Holyoke, a specialist in sculpture. In the midst of raising four sons you have continued in both fields, maintaining a sculpture studio in your home in Weston, Massachusetts, and using your literary skills toward the enrichment of the Alumnae Association. You have served most effectively on the Alumnae Quarterly committee and have contributed timely articles to the Quarterly. Your enthusiasm and loyalty for your second alma mater are also expressed by your pioneer work with the MA graduates. Initially, by writing each of them witty and stimulating letters in your job as the first class agent, you kept the widely spread and diversified Master graduates personally in touch with Mount Holyoke College. Secondly, through your initiation and organization, the MA alumnae reunion was held for the first time in 1976, and again this May. Thus, thanks to your successful efforts over the years you have brought numerous MA alumnae back to the campus in spirit if not in flesh. In recognition of your service, the Alumnae Association with deep affection and great respect present to you its Medal of Honor.
178. JANET C. HALL, Class of 1970. Your noteworthy service to Mount Holyoke began as an undergraduate. You were president of Student Government Association during 1970, a very difficult year on campuses, and were an author of the "Working Paper." You were elected the first young alumna trustee and your ability as a skillful litigator earned the respect and affection of the board of trustees. You are now serving as a member of the trustee proxy committee. As a member of the nomination of alumnae trustees and long range planning committees, you have served the Alumnae Association with much care and diligence. You have made a major contribution to the Association in providing the legal background for the application first to make our alumnae clubs a legal subgroup for the Association and now to extend that same benefit to alumnae classes. As a law student and as a lawyer, you have always found time to serve your alma mater. Your enthusiasm is evident in all aspects of your life. You have set high standards of performance for young alumnae in work with and for the College and the Alumnae Association. With pride and gratitude, the Alumnae Association presents to you its Medal of Honor.
